Background

The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Regional Offices on Women's Health has contracted with John Snow Incorporated (JSI) to administer this RFA. The mission of the Department of Health and Human Services Office on Women's Health (HHS OWH) is to provide leadership to promote health equity for women and girls through sex/gender-specific approaches.

In order to achieve this mission, HHS OWH engages in the following activities:

- The development of innovative programs
- Educating health professionals
- Motivating behavior change in consumers through the dissemination of health information
- For more information on the HHS Office on Women's Health, please visit <http://www.womenshealth.gov/owh/about/>

Ten Regional Women's Health Coordinators (RWHCs) in the United States coordinate and implement national public health initiatives to promote a greater focus on women's health issues at the regional, state and local levels. They advance the mission of the Office on Women's Health in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and represent the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health (Women's Health) by administering programs that improve the health of women in communities across the country, and by coordinating activities and programs in health care service delivery, research, and public and health professional education. Sensitivity to local, state, and regional needs in women's health is reflected in their work to identify priority health areas, to establish networking relationships, and to implement initiatives addressing regional women's health concerns. For additional information about the RWHCs please visit the following link <http://www.womenshealth.gov/owh/reg/>.

Project Area To Be Funded

Violence against women and girls is perpetrated in all types of personal and family relationships and crosses economic, educational, cultural, racial, age, and religious lines. The United States Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS) estimated that nearly one-third of women murdered each year in the United States are killed by their current or former intimate partners.¹ BJS also reported that approximately one million women are stalked each year², and three percent of college women are victims of an attempted or completed rape in each academic year.³

Funding is available for specific events or activities intended to prevent, raise awareness of, or respond to the epidemic of violence against women and girls in the United States. Violence against women and girls encompasses intimate partner violence, domestic violence, sexual assault, sexual abuse, stalking, emotional and verbal abuse; as well as teen violence, bullying, human-trafficking, and other forms of trauma or abuse.

This funding opportunity addresses the physical, mental, and emotional impact of violence against women across the life cycle (e.g. girls, adolescent girls, women of reproductive age, pregnant women, mature women, and older women.) Applications for the Prevention of Violence Against Women and Girls funding may include education and prevention activities such as: awareness walks, issue specific health fairs, prevention workshops for women and girls, training sessions for community providers, and local public health awareness projects on violence against women and girls. Special consideration will be given to applications that address issues related to forms of violence affecting teen girls.

Multiple federal websites are available that provide information, fact sheets, materials, templates and programming ideas as well as links to policies and legislation. You can access these many websites by visiting <http://www.womenshealth.gov/violence/>

Examples of activities that will not be funded include: research, direct clinical services, lab services and testing kits.

Funding Notification

This is a competitive process. All applications will be reviewed by a technical review panel. Applicants will be notified by e-mail or mail as to the status of their application by February 10, 2010.

Payment Process

Awardees will receive payment upon completion of their projects. Payments will be processed within 30 days of receipt and approval of final report. This award is a contract not a grant. You will receive payment after the completion of your project and approval of your final report. All modifications to your project must be approved by your Regional Women's Health Coordinator before your project is implemented. Please note: modifications to your proposed project that are not approved by your Regional Women's Health Coordinator may result in nonpayment of your award.

Project Time Frame

Awardees will have until August 31, 2010 to complete their projects (including submission of final report).
